Upbeat Mood in Italian Men's Knits

•by Eleanora Natili

On fashion runways, in magazines and along city streets, men's knitwear is all the rage. Here's a run-down of the hottest trends for 2005.

Energized by cutting edge styling, innovative yarns and sophisticated colors, men's knits shown across Italy project a freshly upbeat mood.

For starters, cardigans are garnering a lot of attention this year, and in many instances are fast becoming viable substitutes for the traditional jacket.

"More and more of our customers — particularly those in their 20s and 30s — are buying knit cardigan jackets in a wide range of patterns and colors," said Pupi Solari, owner of the Milanese boutique of the same name. "We're seeing a definite trend from the classic to a more relaxed approach to dressing."

Among prime movers of today's newly relaxed dress code are the Missonis, who through the years have created some of the definitive knitwear looks of modern times.

"Knitwear is easy wear, easy care, and a great way to escape the suit," said Luca Missoni, marketing and design head of the menswear division, and a walking advertisement for his fashion credo.

Missoni's newest version of the ubiquitous cardigan — reportedly one of their best sellers worldwide comes in kaleidoscopic zigzags offset by contrasting borders.

V-neck pullover scored by botanical motif jacquard by MISSONI

Also hot at this address are V-neck pullovers punctuated by blockbuster checks, whimsical botanical motifs, and Missoni's most avant-garde pattern — bold splashes of color resembling abstract art.

Another designer who goes well beyond the classic to explore the more adventurous parameters of fashion is Roberto Cavalli, the self-proclaimed "king of excess."

"A Passage to India" best describes Cavalli's current look, which gravitates around a spicy potpourri of paisley, botanical, and animal prints and embroideries. These decorate a whole series of snug tee shirts and cardigans meant to show off the male torso. It's easy to see why many actors and hip-hop artists, who thrive on media exposure, are among this designer's staunchest fans.

The Etro label also backs the ethnic look in knits. Rich paisleys, for which this house is famous, surface on everything from easy sweaters and jackets to fanciful caps and bags. Colorful stripes also get plenty of attention in bold Roman and unbalanced stripes, and in the kind of stripes usually reserved for awnings.

The Miu Miu label, Prada's second label, doesn't shun pattern either. The latest collection could easily be called "the fruit salad collection" for the plethora of tasty bananas, pears and grapefruit spilling down sweaters.

But the unorthodox is not the whole knitwear story, for there are numerous Italian designers who prefer to walk a more traditional path.

Among these is Laura Biagiotti, dubbed the "queen of cashmere" by The New York Times. Her newest collection pays homage to the sports world and is populated by all-white cashmere sweaters in chunky cable knits. She shows them over white tees, shirts and trousers, creating a look suitable for the golf course or yacht club.

For added luxe, Biagiotti accessorizes her sweaters with five-meter-long mufflers, indicating another important trend in knits.

Tiziana Bucci, creative force behind the Ashley's label, is also a recognized cashmere expert. "I prefer unstructured lines for knits that span the seasons, and I employ double-ply cashmeres for winter and single-ply yarns for spring. Cashmere is a luxury yarn that speaks for itself," she said.

But cashmere is just one member of the exclusive roster of natural fiber yarns proposed for 2005.

At Pitti Immagine Filati, the semi-annual fair held in Florence which spotlights the latest yarn trends; mohair yarns were extremely popular with exhibitors, as well as with buyers. A less expensive yarn than cashmere, but with similar aesthetics, kid mohair yarns work beautifully for today's important cardigans, where warmth without bulk is desirable.

Fine Shetland and merino wools are also cold weather choices. Many of these have round rather than ribbon-like constructions, which add a great deal of loft to knit surfaces.

A strong surge in cold weather cottons is also evident, particularly in coarse-cut cotton yarns in the 7, 5 and 3 gauge ranges suitable for men's outerwear.

And microfiber cottons shouldn't be overlooked. They are perfect vehicles for all the snug tee shirts and torso flattering sweaters currently on the market.

Rayon is another perennial favorite with many local designers, and some, like Missoni, use it almost exclusively for their knits. "Rayon's silky hand, plus the ease with which it takes to printing and dyeing, make it a stellar performer," said Luca Missoni.

Yarn construction is generally back to basics, with smooth-twist yarns the order of the day. But be on the lookout as well for subtle texturing created by discreet boucle, nubbed and heather yarn constructions.

Also, to add lively dimension to knit surfaces, try experimenting with synthetic/natural yarn blends for the all important shiny/matte look.

With the passing of each season, color assumes an increasingly prominent role for men's knits. Gone are the days when classic blues, greys and beiges were the color standards. Now, with the newly relaxed mood in knits, the approach to color has loosened up as well.

Red leads the lively 2005 palette and many see the trend as indicative of a newly-found optimism and joie de vivre. Reds range from bright scarlet and lacquer red to warm wine and berry. Reds look great on their own — as witnessed by the plethora of all-red sweaters currently on the market — or they serve as lively accents in multicolor patterns.

Newest browns also have reddish overtones, and they run the gamut from rich terra cotta to a whole series of woodsy tones like mahogany, walnut and maple. Some patterned knits combine brown with red to project a warm earthy appeal.

Blue, the traditional menswear favorite, is also more adventuresome this year. Newest blues are warmed to turquoise, intensified to teal, or have silvery overtones. Classic navy blue is noticeable by its absence.

For color purists, there's nothing quite like the all-white look. White is an essential "non color" that brings the shape and texture of knits to the forefront. White works especially well for today's chunky cable stitch sweaters, and for the all-important cardigan jacket, adding sharpness and dash to both.

The combination of black and white, and grey with white, is always a smart look in men's knits, particularly when used for patterned knits in handsome plaids, checks and stripes.

Although we may think of pastel colors in terms of women's wear, this is no longer the case. Pastels for men are very much in demand, especially for warm weather knits.

Pinks are currently the hottest pastels on the market, and they come in every shade from delicate shell pink to warm rosy pink. Pinks find their best application in lively jacquard and print patterns in sleek stripes, checks and the season's trendiest motifs — colorful florals and paisleys.

And lastly, don't forget delicate nature colors such as bud green, sea foam blue, lilac and oatmeal. They can add a carefree, fresh touch to even the most traditional designs.

All told, this is a truly exceptional season for men's knitwear. And when it comes to cutting-edge styling, and the latest in yarn and color trends, Italian knits are hard to beat. KS

DALE OF NORWAY™

Simple Knits with a Twist: Unique Projects for Creative Knitters by Erika Knight, Stewart Tabori & Chang, ISBN 1-58479-361-9

This book has possibly the best step-by-step photographs for the basic knit and purl stitches, increases and decreases that have ever appeared in print. The first section continues with brief, content-rich tidbits: textures, alternative materials, assembling fabrics into knitted projects, plying two yarns to create your own random effects, embroidery, unraveling old garments so the yarn can be recycled, and reassembling the pieces of old garments into new ones. The 20 projects are all winners and the photos are wonderful throughout the book. Erika Knight moves knitting well beyond its traditional boundaries in this book, that's for sure. There is a shaped rose chintz cushion that looks traditional until you notice the sparkling sequins on the surface, a retro-poodle bottle cover complete with pom-pom cheeks and a jeweled collar, and a carryall made of plastic bags cut into strips, the ultimate in chic recycling. You'll find a rug made of knitted strips woven together, a dog coat with a barcode design, wall hanging, throws, cushions, beaded wire napkin rings, and boudoir slippers that will make you feel like a princess. There is a wire bowl and a flower-trimmed evening bag knitted of net fabric cut into strips. The Aran armchair cover looks like a comfy sweater pulled over your favorite chair, including ribbing at the bottom, cables down the front and plenty of texture along the sides. The denim beanbag chair has a knitted center panel for the seat section, denim fabric sides and a big pocket for your remote control. There's a padded garden kneeler and a liner for a hanging planter basket, but it's a safe bet that even the most practical will fall for the beaded muffler. Keep designing, Ms. Knight! Your fans are waiting. KS

1000 Great Knitting Motifs by Luise Roberts, Trafalgar Square Publishing, ISBN 1-57076-259-7

This book is a handy library of charted designs including geometric patterns, flags, holiday, animals, flowers, trains, figures, hearts, quilt motifs and a whole lot more. The book has a hard cover over a spiral binding so it is sturdy but also lies flat when open. It's organized well with graphics on each page that suggest where to best use the motifs (cuffs, centered on the front of a sweater, as a border, singly or as a multiple). The first section includes traditional knitting motifs, divided into Fair Isle, Scandinavia, Lapland, Western and Eastern Europe, the Mediterranean, Asia and South America. The Traditional pictorial motif section includes Native America, Homestead America, Aztec and Inca, Celts, Middle East and Arab, Africa, India and Tibet. Modern pictorial motifs are divided into alphabets, zodiac and the world around us, animals, birds, insects, floral, toys and the nursery. Techniques are included as are tips and suggestions for choosing and positioning the designs. Each chart includes the number of stitches and rows required. Some of the designs are shown in more than one colorway. Only 7" square, the book is small enough to tuck into a knitting bag. A lifetime of custom knitting is right at your fingertips for only two cents per design. KS

Knitting for Two: 20 Simple Designs for Expectant (and New) Mommies and Babies by Erika Knight, Watson-Guptill Publications, ISBN 0-8230-2613-2

Go ahead. Grin at the baby in the lower left corner of the cover. I dare you to try not to! The beautiful babies and smiling pregnant women add to the pleasure of the patterns. A woman cradles her belly, her striped "hoodie" sweater unzipped from the bottom. Another woman sports a soft wrap jacket held closed at the front by diaper pins wound with yarn. Some garments are sporty, some elegant and dressy, some cozy and meant for lazy hours at home, but everything is so flattering and so carefully shaped. These don't look like models with pillows stuffed into their clothes - these look like very pregnant women who are happy with their bodies and with the sweaters they're wearing. And, oh, those baby projects: hats, teddy bears, cardigans, a blanket with a satin edge, booties and an irresistible papoose with a pom-pom at the top of the head. KS

The Organized Knitter handmade knitting needle cases,
www.organizedknitter.com

In her small studio in Seattle, Washington, Meagan Reardon sews needle cases to order. She started her business in 2003 when she couldn't find cases that fit all of her needs. She asked friends for ideas to add to her own and came up with original designs that hold needles, both straight and round, plus tools and gadgets. There are slim card pockets to allow for labeling circular and double-pointed needles, a widely requested feature. Needles won't fall out of the cases since they are designed with a flap that wraps the needles before the case is folded and tied. There are four styles: Straight needle roll, Straight & Circular combination, Circular, and Double-Pointed & Circular. Crochet hooks fit well, too. There is nice attention to detail. The ends of the ribbon ties have been sealed so they won't fray. The fabrics will appeal to knitters of all ages. There are plenty of funky, retro designs as well as Asian prints, stripes, flowers, large dots, a small number of textured solid colors, and even a sushi pattern print. KS

Gloves In A Bottle,
www.glovesinabottle.com

You only get one pair of hands, so it's a good idea to treat them kindly. Gloves In A Bottle is a very accurately named product. It's a moisturizing lotion that works on your outer layer of skin like an invisible pair of gloves. It protects your hands while it keeps them hydrated and the gentle formula is greaseless and fragrance free so you can safely use Gloves In A Bottle while you're working with yarns and threads. In other words, the oils in your skin won't get dried out by what you're doing with your hands. Once the invisible protective barrier is formed, it won't wash off. It wears off naturally with exfoliated skin cells - a fancy way of saying you can't see it and it comes off by itself. Reapply every four hours or so while you're working on a project. This is a product that will get a lot of use by the whole family. You get the dexterity of not wearing gloves and the protection of having them on - a plus when you're painting, using glue, doing household tasks or crafting. The web site has before and after photos to show the healing effects and testimonials from health professionals who recommend Gloves In A Bottle. Check it out. KS

in-the-bag, 978-314-8103, www.in-the-bag.biz

From the handcrafted cherry or walnut handles and 100% Scottish and French wool or limited edition pure cotton fabric exteriors to the elegant Italian linen or vintage floral twill linings, these bags are absolute luxury. Both stylish and practical, in-the-bag totes have the look of an old-fashioned doctor's bag.

The company was founded by two knitters who didn't have "groovy bags" to use and decided to manufacture some. The Classic is 14" x 17", the Big Bag 17" x 18". The bags are deceptively roomy - you'll be surprised by how easily several balls or skeins of yarn, pattern book and needles will fit inside. A magnet clasp holds the bag closed and there's a handy pocket for keys or small items. It would be tempting to have one for summer (something floral) and one for winter (herringbone wool, perhaps), or leave the knitting project at home now and then and use the bag as a purse. These bags are a splurge, but so durable that they become a bargain when you figure you'll have them for decades. In fact, it might be one of those items that get passed to a grandchild. They don't look like they'd ever wear out! A nice gift option: you can buy the bags with kits for knit or crochet (yarn, needles or hook and hat pattern). Though you can see from a photograph how elegant in-the-bag totes are, they're many times more wonderful in person. Look for new fabrics and styles and make sure that if you find one you like you get it when you see it since fabrics are retired or discontinued now and then. KS

Bad Feelings

•By Leslye Solomon

Knitting books, magazines and pamphlets inspire you with great ways to use yarn. Finding yarn and getting help with your projects should be a positive and exciting experience. Where you buy yarn should be a place where you are greeted with zeal, where you find lots of inspiration through books, patterns and store samples. Expert employees should be eager and ready to assist you. In a perfect world, it should be a place where a customer's importance is never undervalued.

Most knitting stores realize that their customers are the most important people in their business. They should know that their customers are not dependent on their store. Their store is dependent on their customers. Customers are not an interruption to their work; they are the purpose for it. Customers do the stores a favor when they choose to patronize the shop. A store is not doing the customer a favor when they are serving them. Customers are an integral part of the business. They are not outsiders. The knitters that walk through doors of knitting stores are not cold statistics. They are flesh and blood human beings with feelings and emotions. They want to feel welcome. Customers are not individuals with which to argue or match wits. When you walk into a yarn store, you bring your wants. It's the job of the knitting store to fill those wants — with some reasonable limitations.

In any business, all customers deserve the most courteous and attentive treatment. No one could disagree that the knitters who buy yarn from a store are the lifeblood of this business. But who couldn't tell a story of occasional bad feelings?

In general, most of us have wonderful experiences visiting these individually run small businesses. However, many of us have had an event that has given us a bad feeling. Whether it was an inappropriate action by an owner, an employee toward a customer or employees of the store receiving bad feelings because of the unreasonable or difficult customer, we could all use some insight on this delicate if not unmentionable subject.

Ok...so let's have a little group therapy. Pretend we can tune into Dr. Bhill, an afternoon talk show host. Today he is having a televised show about yarn shops, their owners and the knitters that patronize them.

Use your imagination with me...and envision a television stage with three cameras in front of an audience.

Seated on the spotlight-lit stage are four knitters; Sandy, Annie, Ronda and Jayne. After the introductory music fades, the applause dies down as Dr. Bhill introduces them all as knitters who have a common problem of bad feelings pertaining to their knitting projects. All are anxious to share their personal story.

Sandy begins. "Well, my name is Sandy, and I am so...mad!" Tears well up in her eyes as she holds up a stringy, unfinished lump of knitting. "I started this sweater about two months ago...got the yarn when I was traveling. I wanted to just get some help from my local yarn shop and the lady at the yarn shop was feeling a bit slighted and wanted to charge me a fee for helping me — do you believe that?" Sandy became a bit emotional, looking for sympathy from the audience. The crowd quietly moans.

"Ok, so I did not buy my yarn at the shop this particular time. Like I said, I was out of town when I bought this yarn. I have bought lots of yarn, needles and patterns from my local yarn shop over the last year. I couldn't believe she wanted to charge me. I have been a customer there in the past. I shouldn't have to pay to get a half an hour's worth of their help. I was offended."

Dr. Bhill directs this question to the audience. "Should she be able to get help from the yarn shop if she didn't buy the project from the shop?" The crowd shows mixed reactions.

A person from the audience volunteered her opinion, "If she helps her this time, she might win that customer over forever. Why not spend a few minutes helping. It might make that person really appreciate the help and they might gain a new loyal customer. In the long run, those few minutes will be paid back by gaining a friend."

"Point well taken" Dr. Bhill says as he searches for another opinion.

Dr. Bhill extends the microphone to another audience member, "I could see helping this person once, but what if it happens repeatedly. That could cause...bad feelings."

Camera pans to the next person on the panel. Dr. Bhill cues Annie to begin.

"Hi, my name is Annie. I needed help from the place where I bought my yarn in order to sew my sweater together. I was at the yarn shop all day a few weeks ago and I just couldn't get that matrix stitch for my side seams. That day, someone was very nice as they sat with me just about all day long showing me a few times...did one side for me and I'm having trouble again. The knit shop lady suggested that I enroll in their finishing class or give the project to their finisher. True...finishing is not one of my things. All I'm saying is...can't someone just help me sew this sweater together?"

Dr. Bhill asks, "Have you ever thought of taking a class on finishing or even having someone else do it for you?"

"Take a class? I'm not taking a class. I just need help...if someone would just show me again. I gotta get this thing done. It's not fair. I bought the yarn at my store and they owe it to me to help me as long as it takes to finish. I am not paying for any finishing service."

The crowd quietly converses as Dr. Bhill says, "Ronda."

"Hi, I'm Ronda. Well...my bad feelings aren't from a yarn shop. They are toward a knitting magazine. I, uh...I didn't get my yarn in a yarn shop, per se. But the place I go...they sell yarn there...and a lot of other stuff...Styrofoam balls, wood you can refinish yourself, stamping stuff, beads, picture frames and tons of silk flowers. So with the yarn I bought, I was trying to follow one of those patterns in a magazine. I'm a good knitter, I always knit to gauge and I have been knitting since I was six. This pattern in the magazine was written wrong! I mean...when I did exactly what they say, I did not get the same measurements as what the pattern says I should. I have tried and tried and I am tired of starting all over again. So I called the magazine long distance to see if they could help me. I didn't think they cared one bit."

The omniscient Dr. Bhill asks, "Did you use the yarn that the pattern recommended? Did you make a tension swatch of the yarn?"

Ronda continues, "No...I did not use the yarn that was recommended in the magazine but I did use the size needles the pattern recommended. My store didn't carry that brand. But what I bought looked close enough to the picture. The knitting instructor at that store comes in on Wednesdays. It was Thursday. But this pattern...has gotta be wrong and I'll never buy

Yarn...Keeping Abreast of What's New

•By Susan Lazear

If you think back about ten years, you will remember that using the Internet as a research tool was not a viable option to most craftspeople. How, then, did you keep on top of what was new in the yarn world? A visit to your local yarn store did the trick. Through the past ten year span, we have seen many yarn shops close, though fortunately, with the surging interest in knitting, many new shops have opened. In the meantime, the Internet as a resource tool claimed its place in consumers' busy lives.

Today, it is possible to get all the latest and greatest news not only from your local yarn merchant but also from the web sites of the various yarn manufacturers. In this way, you can research what is out there and let store owners know what yarns you would like to see them carry. Let's take a tour of what information you can glean from a variety of sources online.

Trendsetter Yarns

At the Trendsetter site, you can browse their full line of yarns. Simply click on Yarns at the top of the home page and then choose a yarn. You will be presented with digital images of numerous yarns. Once you select a particular yarn, you can see the various colors it is available in, plus the typical gauge and suggested needle size. If you want to find the closest retailer, you can click on the Retail link and look for retailers in your state. On the Links page, you can locate a Universal Care Symbol Chart for Knits.

Louet Yarns

Louet is well known in the industry for their linen yarns. On their site, you can find not only color pictures of each yarn they carry, but general information on the use and care of linen as well as helpful tips. Linen is one of the hidden treasures in the yarn world; most people don't know enough about it. So take advantage of the information available. You can locate dealers and search through patterns created by the Louet staff.

Muench is a wholesaler specializing in yarns from Europe. They also carry unique buttons, Pony and Inox needles and the Rebecca magazine. Check out the Pony knitting needles. They come with a built-in row counter, stitch holder or point protector, all in one system! If you want to see what sweaters are in the current or back issues of Rebecca magazine, you can click on the link to the Rebecca home page (<http://www.rebeccaonline.com/>) and 'flip' through the pages. Muench has images of many of their yarns, and you can use their Retail Store Locator to find a shop near you.

Unique Kolours

If you are a fan of Colinette yarns, you will enjoy this site. The digital images of the yarns are particularly good and allow you to see not only the texture of the yarn, but a fairly accurate color capture of Colinette's unique hand-dyed yarn. Clicking on any of the small snapshots provided will take you to a clear, crisp, larger image. Of course, there are patterns galore, a retail shop locator and information on kits.

at my yarn shop but...look at this sweater. Look how wide this is...look how long it is...it's huge! This looks ridiculous. The shop owner told me to follow this size. This just didn't turn out ...and I want my money back."

Jayne says, "Midway up the first piece...the back."

Dr. Bhil asks, "Why didn't you stop when you noticed it was big?"

Jayne says, "I was just following the directions she told me to follow."

After returning from a commercial break, Dr. Bhill summarizes, "What we are talking about here are bad feelings. Let's take Sandy for example. Sandy has bought her yarn in a store in another city and wants help from a local store. I assume that the yarn shop would have offered her free help if she did buy the yarn there, but they wanted to charge a small fee when she needed help with a project from another shop. Although she has not bought yarn this time from the store, she feels she deserves free help in all her knitting projects. Hey look...she has bought yarn here other times. Doesn't that mean she is eligible for free help at all times?"

A member of the audience raises her hand to speak. "I have a small dress shop and we offer free alterations for each dress purchased from our store. If someone brought in a dress from another shop, I would not alter a dress for free if it was not purchased at my store. Even if the person bought dresses from us before, I am a very good seamstress. I want my services to be available only to those who have paid for a dress at my store."

Another member volunteers his opinion, "I own a restaurant. I pay for an excellent location. I hate to tell you how I feel when people bring in food they purchased from another establishment. Makes me mad."

Another person volunteers to speak. "I am a dentist. I have patients who see me regularly. I happen to charge them for each service. Just because I clean and fill their teeth on a regular basis, that doesn't mean I wouldn't charge them for an additional ailment, a treatment for which they need from me. I think if you need the services of someone at the store, you should be willing to pay for it. Think about what's fair."

"I am a retired owner of a yarn shop and I think that a smart business person who cares can certainly stop for a few minutes to do a bit of goodwill. It's when minutes turn to hours, and there is a certain amount of responsibility in giving advice," comments a final audience member.

Dr. Brill advises, "The fact is, if you didn't buy the yarn from the store, spending time with an employee can get costly. It can cause bad feelings. Maybe paying for the service of helping is a fair offering. It might help avoid the bad feelings of both the customer and the employee that occurs when you want something for nothing. Heck...I can't get my accountant to look at my tax return that was done by another accountant for free. He's going to charge me for his time. Think about it: how does that expert feel when she becomes aware that her expertise has no value? If a small fee was applied to the service of helping, that would make the expert feel appropriately compensated and the person needing the help would avoid feeling offended when she is resented or, worse, turned away. It's a win-win situation for both of you."

Dr. Bhill continues, "Now Annie is making a sweater and seems to require a day's worth of help plus many hours to learn how to finish the sweater. When a store policy offers hours of free help, with little success, there might be a point when classes, videos or finishing services might be in order. I believe Annie would benefit from taking a class. If finishing is not her thing, maybe she should consider letting the professionals do it and, yes, for a fee. When the people at the store patiently helped for hours, should her sweater turn into the store's project? I am sure your success is in their best interest, but when does your project become their job? They can only offer to help...a number of times before it becomes too difficult for both...creating those bad feelings."

An audience member stands up and says, "I think they should help Annie, who bought yarn at the store. I think they should show her how to do seams or install a sleeve three, maybe four, times. After that many attempts, I think they have gone beyond their responsibilities. I mean...if a person hasn't gotten it by then, the only thing to do is let someone else do it for them."

Another person stands up and says, "Basically, I think that Annie just wants to use them as much as she can so she can get their services for free. There may be a point when all energy is drained and, hours later, that creates bad feelings."

Dr. Bhil explains, "Now Ronda bought her yarn and magazine at a large store where there is limited assistance offered. The only place she could turn to was the phone number in the magazine for the editor. We happen to have interviewed the editor of that magazine at her location a few days ago..."

A large LCD screen slowly lowers into view. The editor of the magazine was filmed sharing her bad feelings. "We so wanted to help Ronda. She called us saying the pattern we placed in the magazine was wrong. We checked the pattern and we found no problem with it. We knew she needed help and we wanted her to get help from the place she bought the yarn. We found out during our phone conversation that the yarn she was using for this pattern wouldn't have worked because it wasn't the right gauge. The weight of the yarn was different from the weight or thickness that the pattern was calculated for. The pattern wasn't wrong. She won't get the sweater shown for because she was missing some basic knitting information. That's why qualified knitting stores are so helpful when you buy your yarn there. There was no way we could offer her any help. We felt terrible that she had bad feelings toward our magazine. We wished she had someone local to help her."

Dr. Bhil stares into the camera, "Yes, this show is about bad feelings. And the moral of that story is, you can't blame the magazine if you haven't followed the pattern, which says, Take time to check the gauge. Even if the yarn recommended for the pattern was not used, one must attempt to find another yarn that will have the same stitches and rows to the inch upon which the pattern was based. Audience, is it the magazine's fault?"

"No!"

Dr. Bhil continues, "Our last guest, Jayne, has stated that wants her money back. Her sweater is too long. She followed the directions and she did not like the results. Jayne, how long would you have wanted this finished sweater?"

"I'd like it about 3 inches shorter than this is," she replies.

Dr. Bhil asks, "Whose project is this? Is it the store's? No, this is your project. You are in the driver's seat, so to speak. It's your craft. Whose job is it to make sure you become skilled at it? It must come within you, the knitter. If a pattern says, 'work until piece is 12 inches long, you can stop knitting any time you want to adjust it to the size you need. It is not the store's fault, nor is it their responsibility. Mistakes like this make you better the next time. When you knit, stop and look at what you are doing. It's your project — not the store's. You should be aware of a project that seems small or large, too long or short. If you suspect a problem, I am sure the place where you bought it from can advise you as to what you can do to correct the problem."

The crowd applauds before Dr. Bhil's final thought.

"Well, ladies and gentlemen, in conclusion....nobody wants to have a bad experience. We know it occasionally happens. There must be a fair and balanced way to conduct this relationship so both of you win and cooperate together. For years, knitting knowledge was passed down from mother to daughter — there was no fee involved nor was it a business. Both new and seasoned knitters need help with knitting and there are opportunities to get it if they want to improve their skills. But remember not to think of a store as your public library or your granny. Like any other business, when help goes beyond the limits of reason, one should do what is right. Check with the individual policies of your particular store and respect each other. When you want unlimited services for free, it can be draining to the person who is making the offer to help. Both the store owner and the customer need to work cooperatively to establish a mutually beneficial relationship."

"Tune in to our next show when we'll talk about the dangers of hot glue gun accidents. See you tomorrow." KS

Diagonal Steps Crew Sweater

Susan Shildmyer's crew sweater designed exclusively for Lorna's Laces is worked in Shepherd Worsted with a diagonal step pattern.

SIZES

KNITTED MEASUREMENTS

*Finished Bust or Chest: 39 (42½, 46, 50) in.

*Back Length: 24½ (25½, 27½, 29) in.

MATERIALS

*5 (6, 6, 7), 50 gm/225 yd skeins of Lorna's Laces Shepherd Worsted (100% superwash merino wool) in solid or muted variegated color

*One pair each straight knitting needles in sizes 5 and 7 U.S. OR SIZE REQUIRED TO OBTAIN GAUGE

*Circular knitting needle 16 in. long in smaller size

GAUGE

9 sts = 2 in. with Lorna's Laces SHEPHERD WORSTED and larger ndls in St st. TO SAVE TIME, TAKE TIME TO CHECK GAUGE.

NOTES

Due to its diagonal nature, the stitch pattern tends to twist before blocking. Measure length carefully, or count rows based on your gauge in the stockinette stitch portion of the sweater.

When knitting the stitch pattern sections, it is advisable to work 1 stitch on each edge in stockinette stitch to make sewing the seams easier.

Option: While the instructions are written in separate pieces, it also works well if the body of the sweater is worked in-the-round to the armholes.

PATTERN STITCH

NOTES

The Little Suit kit is available from Valentina Devine Yarn Creations (505) 662-1440 or email RDevine@sisna.com. The jacket is knit in one piece, starting at the right sleeve and finishing at the left sleeve. The knitter has 7 colors to choose from. Since the yarn is hand-dyed in irregular spaces, the colorway becomes even more ample. Use them at random to create wide and narrow stripes and a one-of-a-kind design.

CROCHET ABBREVIATIONS

sc = single crochet: Insert hook in next stitch, yarn over, draw yarn through stitch, yarn over, draw yarn through 2 loops on hook (= 1 sc).

TO SAVE TIME, TAKE TIME TO CHECK GAUGE.

NOTE: It is recommended to practice the Butterfly Pattern in a 22-st swatch before beginning the Jacket to learn the stitch and have even tension during the actual knitting.

PATTERN STITCH

Butterfly Pattern (multiple of 10 sts + 2 edge sts):

Note: The Butterfly Pattern is formed by placing bowknot sts as indicated.

Bowknot St: On next st (which is at center of the slipped group), insert RH ndl down through the 3 loose strands, bring ndl up and transfer 3 strands to LH ndl, p 3 strands plus next st tog to make 1 st.

Row 1: K 1, *wyif sl 5; rep from *, ending with k 1.

Row 5: K 1, *k 5, wyif sl 5; rep from *, ending with k 1.

Rep Rows 1-8 for Butterfly Pat.

Note: For the sizes with a multiple of 10 + 5 + 2 edge sts:

Row 1: K 1, *wyif sl 5; rep from *, ending with sl 5, k 1.

Row 2: P 1, *p 5, wyib sl 5; rep from *, ending with p 6.

Row 5: K 1, *k 5, wyif sl 5; rep from *, ending with k 6.

Row 8: P 1, *p 2, work bowknot st, p 7; rep from *, ending with p 2, work bowknot st, p 3.

Rep Rows 1-8 rows for Butterfly Pat.

BACK: With MC, CO 82 (87, 92, 102) sts. Work in Butterfly Pat for 11½ (11½, 12, 13) in. Shape armholes: Maintaining pat, BO 5 sts at beg of next 2 rows. Dec 1 st each edge EOR 1 (1, 4, 6) times — 70 (75, 74, 80) sts. Work until armholes meas 8 (8, 9, 9) in. BO all sts.

Note: Before beg Fronts, make a note as to where first butterfly is located on Back seam line. If butterfly is next to seam line, you will want to adjust where you beg pat so that pat is continuous and the two butterflies are not butting up against each other at the seam line.

LEFT FRONT: With MC, CO 42 (42, 47, 52) sts. Work in Butterfly Pat for 11½ (11½, 12, 13) in., ending with a WSR.

Shape armhole: Maintaining pat, BO 5 sts at armhole edge once. Dec 1 st at armhole edge EOR 1 (1, 4, 6) times — 36 (36, 38, 41) sts. Work until armhole meas 3 in., less than Back to shoulders. Shape neck: BO at neck edge at beg of EOR: 6 sts once, 5 sts once, then dec 1 st at each neck edge every other RSR 4 (2, 4, 4) times. Work until piece meas same length as Back. BO rem 21 (23, 23, 26) sts.

SLEEVES: With two strands of CC held tog, CO 37 sts. K 1 row, then cut yarn. Join MC and k 1 row. Beg pat: Work 8 rows of Butterfly Pat, then beg inc 1 st each edge every 6th (6th, 4th, 4th) row 7 (7, 10, 10) times, then every 8th (8th, 6th, 6th) row 8 (8, 10, 10) times working incs into pat — 67 (67, 77, 77) sts. Work until piece meas 18 in. from beg. BO all sts.

FINISHING: Sew shoulder and side seams. Edging: With RS facing, using two strands of CC held tog, PU 1 st in each row along Left Front. K 1 row. BO purtwise. Work same edging along Right Front. With RS facing, using two strands of CC held tog, PU 1 st in each st or row around neck edge. K 1 row. BO purtwise. Sew in Sleeves. Sew side seams. KS

20 sts and 28 rows = 4 in. with Cascade Yarns CASCADE 220 in St st. TO SAVE TIME, TAKE TIME TO CHECK GAUGE.

NOTES

Center panels of Front and Back are made first, garter strips are made and sewn to the center panels, side panels are made and sewn to the garter strips, shoulders are sewn together, and, finally, sides and Sleeves are picked up and worked down.

SPECIAL ABBREVIATION

3-ndl BO = 3-needle bind off:

Place sts from each shoulder holder onto separate ndls, points parallel and facing the same direction. Holding these with RS tog, and with a 3rd same size ndl, (insert ndl in first st from front ndl and first st from back ndl and k2tog) twice, *pass first st from RH ndl over 2nd to BO, k next 2 sts from LH ndls tog as before; rep from * until 1 st rem. Fasten off.

CENTER BACK PANEL: With B and straight ndls, CO 32 sts. Work 2 prep rows, then work Rows 1-46 of Chart I 3 times using intarsia technique. BO all sts on RS using B and a p st.

CENTER FRONT PANEL: With B and straight ndls, CO 32 sts. Work 2 prep rows, then work Rows 1-46 of Chart I twice, then Rows 1-29 of Chart I once. P 1 WSR with B. BO all sts on RS using B and a p st.

GARTER STRIPS (make 4): With A and dpns (or short straights), CO 12 sts. Work in garter st with selvege as foll: Every row: K 1 tbl, k 10, sl 1 wyif. Rep this row until 115 garter sts (230 rows) are complete, not including the CO row. Leave sts on a holder. Join strips to center panel: Pin, then sew 1 strip to each side of Center Back Panel. Place panel 3 ridges down from top of strips and 3 ridges up from bottom of strips. Pin, then sew 1 strip to each side of Center Front Panel. Place panel 22 ridges down from top of strips and 3 ridges up from bottom of strips.

SIDE PANELS

Join side panels to Front & Back:

Pin and then sew each side panel in its place. Place each panel at top of garter strip and 3 ridges up from bottom of garter strip. Join shoulders: With RS of work facing, using A and beg with Left Front, PU 1 st in every BO st of side panel, k 12 sts from holder of Front strip, with a 2nd ndl, k across 12 sts of Left Back strip and PU 1 st in each BO st of Left Back side panel. Work 3-ndl BO until all sts are BO. Rep on right shoulder.

SIDE GARTER SECTION & SLEEVES:

With A and circular ndl, PU 105 sts along edge of Left Front panel and 105 sts along side of Left Back panel (approx 1 st every row 3 times, then skip 1 row). Do not join. Work back and forth on 210 sts in garter st with selvege as foll: K1tbl, k to last st, sl 1 wyif — 5 (10, 15) garter ridges and 10 (20, 30) rows are complete. PU row counts as first row, or 1/2 of a garter ridge. BO for Sleeves: At beg of next 2 rows, BO 63 sts. Cont in garter st and re-establish selvege. Dec 1 st each side, 1 st in from selvege edge, every 6th ridge (12th row) 11 times. Work even on 62 sts until Sleeve meas 15 in. beyond side seam BO rows. With WS facing, BO all sts using a k st. Rep for Right Front and Back side.

FINISHING: Sew side and underarm seams. KS

GAUGE

12 sts = 4 in. with Ornaighi Filati COUNTRY and larger ndls in St st.

TO SAVE TIME, TAKE TIME TO CHECK GAUGE.

NOTES

Poncho is worked in-the-round beginning at the neck and working down toward the hem. As the number of stitches gets crowded on the ndls, it may become necessary to change to longer circulars or put half of the stitches on each of two circular ndls. Since the increases are worked evenly around the poncho, there is no front, back or sides — it can be slipped on quickly and worn any direction.

PONCHO: Beg at neck, with size 10 circular ndl, CO 60 sts. Join, being careful not to twist sts. Working in-the-round, place marker at beg of rnd. P 1 rnd, K 1 rnd, P 1 rnd, K 2 rnds. Change to size 11 ndl. Inc eyelet rnd: (K 2, yo) around — 90 sts. K 7 rnds.

Decorative eyelet rnd: (K 1, k2tog, yo) around. Note: The number of sts rem the same. K 7 rnds. Work inc rnd — 135 sts. K 7 rnds. Work decorative eyelet rnd. Rep these 8 rows 4 more times. Note: There are now 8 eyelet rnds and 135 sts. K 6 more rnds. Do not BO.

PICOT EDGING: Use a long piece of cotton yarn and thread it through all sts. Remove knitting ndls. Fold up hem of Poncho along last row of eyelets. Using a darning ndl, loosely whip st one live thread from the cotton thread to inside of Poncho along lower edge of next set of eyelets.

Note: This hem should be stretchy and invisible. Be careful to sew through the center of every st so that they are finished and anchored. Weave in all ends. Remove cotton yarn. MS

IN THE LOOP

It's the latest-Knit 'N Style's IN THE LOOP for all your classified advertising needs. Ads are $3.00 per word. The first five words are capitalized and boldfaced at no extra charge. Any additional capitalized and/or boldfaced words are $1.50 each. There is a 10% discount on ads running ten or more consecutive issues and a 20% discount on ads running twenty or more consecutive issues. A 25% discount is offered on ads running in all seven of our magazines.

Clearly print or type advertising copy along with your name, address, and telephone number. Indicate how many times and in which issues you wish the ad to run. Send Visa, MasterCard or American Express information or check or money order (made payable) to: ALL AMERICAN CRAFTS, INC., Knit 'N Style Classifieds, 243 Newton-Sparta Rd., Newton, NJ 07860 Attn: Brett Cohen. If out of the US, please send POSTAL money order in US dollars to the above address. Your canceled check is your receipt. Please enclose a SASE if you would like a written receipt.

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY AD space is also available and can be from 1 to 4 inches high by 2 1/4 inches wide. The price per inch is $105.00 with ad materials supplied. If you would like us to put the ad together for you, there is an additional charge of $50.00. The frequency discount rates apply to ad inch space as well.

WEBSITE CLASSIFIED ADS! For advertisers placing classified ads in print in Knit 'n Style, we offer the opportunity to advertise on our website for an additional 10% of your total ad cost. Check it out at www.knitnstyle.com

The publisher reserves the right to refuse or cancel any advertisement at any time. The publisher will not knowingly publish any fraudulent ads.
